"BUT WITH THE PRECIOUS BLOOD OF CHRIST" I Peter 1:19

Standing at the foot of the cross, we see hands, and feet, and all distilling crimson streams of precious blood. It is "precious" because of its redeeming and atoning efficacy. By it each of Christ's people are atoned for; they are redeemed from under the law; they are reconciled to God, made one with Christ. Christ's blood is also "precious" in its cleansing power: it "cleanseth from all sin." "Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow." Through Jesus' blood there is not a spot left on any believer, no wrinkle nor any such thing remains. It is the blood, which makes us clean, removing the stains of our sinful iniquity, and permitting us to stand accepted in the Beloved, notwithstanding the many ways in which we have been unjustinct our God.

The blood of Christ is likewise "precious" in its preserving power. We are safe from the destroying angel under the sprinkled blood. Remember it is God's "seeing" the blood which is the true reason for our being spared. Here is comfort for us when the eye of faith is dim, for God's eye is still the same. The blood of Christ is "precious" also in its sanctifying influence. It is the blood which justifies by taking away sin, does in its effects, quicken the new nature and lead it onward to holiness and to follow out the commands of God. There is no motive for holiness so great as that which streams from the wounds of Jesus. And "precious," unspeakably precious, is this blood because it has an overcoming power. It is written, "They overcame through the blood of the Lamb." How could they do otherwise? He who fights with the precious blood of Jesus, fights with a weapon which cannot know defeat.

The blood of Jesus! Sin dies at its presence, death ceases to terrify. Heaven's gates are opened. The blood of Jesus! We trust its power!

Food Shopper

Va. Dept. of Agriculture & Commerce

Begin in the midst of the holiday season means time for those quickie "ideas" in the kitchen so you can enjoy your guests and also spend extra time preparing for the holiday. This is a time when dairy products can be a lifesaver.

For those guests who drop by unexpectedly to wish you merry your them some eggnog and offer them some homemade cookies. Eggnog is an instant convenience and if you want to go fancy top it with a dollop of whipped cream and some crushed peppermint candy.

When it comes to group activities caroling has been a favorite through the years. And, carolers always enjoy a warm snack after they've been out singing in the cold. Have lots of warm cocoa and bowls of freshly popped corn. That can be dressed up by melting one-fourth cup of one half stick of butter; add to the butter one-fourth cup of grated parmesan cheese and one-half teaspoon of salt. Toss the butter mixture with one and one-half quarts of freshly popped corn.

Of course entertaining is fun, but in the rush what about family meals? If you've looking for ways to economize on everyday meals before the big holidays, consider some rich, creamy soup. An easy one uses one can each of condensed cream of tomato soup and green pea soup with two soup cans of milk. Float toast rounds on each bowl of soup and sprinkle with shredded Povolone cheese for a hearty lunch or supper.

On these busy days before the holidays, save time and energy with a no-fuss dessert. You'll like Cheddar cheese or Gouda wedges with plentiful apples. With pears, which are also in season, give the folks a treat with crumbly Blue cheese or smoky Provolone.

Or, if you're watching your weight this suggestion may be helpful. To trim off those few pounds before the holidays, make a yogurt salad dressing for your salads, preferably the green vegetable varieties. To one cup of yogurt, add two tablespoons, each, tarragon vinegar and chopped parsley, then fold in two teaspoons each, anchovy paste, fresh lemon juice, chopped green onion or chives and one small close of garlic, mined.

Take advantage of these nutritious ideas to incorporate dairy products in your holiday meals and entertaining.

IRS Questions & Answers

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q My real estate broker has been working for me as a rental agent on a house that I own. I pay her a percentage of the monthly rent for her property management services. Is this fee a deductible rental expense?

A. Yes If she collects the rent, advertises for tenants, etc., her commission is a deductible rental expense.

Q I have a charge account with a local department store. The store charges me a flat fee each time I make a payment on my balance. Is this fee or a part of it deductible as interest or finance charges?

A If you make installment purchases on a charge account on which a flat fee or service charg eis made, the interest is not definitely determinable. The fee represents not only a charge for the use of the money but also a charge for maintaining and servicing your account. Even if the interest cannot be determined, you may treat a portion of the flat fee as deductible interest. Such a deduction will be the lesser of either an amount equal to six percent of the average unpaid balance of your installment contract during the year, or the portion of the total fee or service charge allocable to the year. For further information on the subject, consult IRS Publication 545, "Income Tax Deduction for Interest Expense. It's available free from many IRS offices.

Q My doctor has put me on a special diet because I have an ulcer. Does the cost of this diet qualify as a deductible medical expense?

A No. Since your new diet merely replaces food you normally would eat, the cost involved is not a medical expense. A special food or beverage prescribed by your physician is deductible only if it is in addition to your normal diet and in no way a part of your nutritional needs. In such a case, you should submit with your return a statement from your doctor.

Q I am a professional operatic singer. I have a wardrobe of costumes which I must wear when I sing in roles from varioi; operas. Is the cost of my work clothing deductible?

A Yes. Musicians and entertainers may deduct the cost of theatrical clothing and accessories if they use such garments solely in the course of their employment.
